

OEP Personal Information Charter

This information charter sets out the standards you can expect from us when we process your personal information (also called personal data). Specific information as to how we handle your personal data when you use our website, submit a complaint, contact us about our areas of research interest, or make an enquiry can be found in our Privacy Notice.

You can also view information on how we handle your environmental complaints by visiting our Customer Charter.

Processing of personal information

This includes:

- collecting
- using
- storing
- disclosing
- disposing

We are a data controller. A data controller determines how and why personal information is processed.

We will follow all applicable data protection laws in how we treat your personal information.

We will ensure that your personal information is:

- protected and kept secure
- kept accurate and up to date
- only used lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner and for purposes compatible with those for which it was collected
- kept only for as long as it is needed (unless it must be kept as part of the historic record or archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific or statistical purposes).

Your information rights

You have the right to be informed about the collection and use of your personal information. Some information is provided in this charter, such as your information rights and how to contact us. We may provide specific privacy information to you when we collect your personal information (or as soon as possible if we obtain your data from another source).

You have the right to:

- ask us for a copy of the personal information we hold about you – a ‘subject access request’
- challenge the accuracy of personal information we hold about you and ask us to correct it, delete it or complete it by adding more details
- ask us to delete personal information we hold about you a ‘right to be forgotten’
- request that we limit how we use your personal information
- ask us to transfer your personal information to another organisation, or provide it to you in a machine-readable format
- object to us using your personal information
- prevent us from using automated processing

Some rights only apply in certain circumstances. Information about this is provided in more detail on the Information Commissioner’s website.

Contact us to find out how to exercise any of your information rights and which rights apply to personal information we hold about you.

Privacy notice

When we obtain your personal information, we will provide privacy information to you, usually as a ‘privacy notice’.

This will tell you:

- what we’ll use your personal information for
- why we’re legally able to process it (also called the ‘lawful basis for processing’)
- how long we’ll keep it
- who we’ll share it with, if applicable
- whether it will be transferred or accessed outside the UK, and what legal protection it will have, if applicable

Contact us if you need assistance with accessing privacy information for a particular service.

Storing and processing your personal information

We will only keep your personal information for as long as necessary, in line with statutory, regulatory, legal or security requirements, or based on historic value. Details will be in the relevant privacy notice.

We will store and dispose of your personal information securely, protect it and only give access to the people that need it.

We will only use your personal information in ways that are compatible with the purpose(s) set out in the relevant privacy notice and this information charter.

Where we process your contact details to provide a service to you, we may use your contact details to:

- invite you to complete surveys
- provide feedback
- attend consultations
- ask you for more information

We'll do this to improve our service. You can ask us not to do this.

In most cases your personal information will be stored and processed inside the United Kingdom. When your personal information will be transferred outside the United Kingdom, we will inform you and let you know what safeguards are in place.

Sharing your data

In some cases a data processor will process your personal information on our behalf. We may also share your personal information with other organisations - details will be on the relevant privacy notice.

We will not make your personal information available to a third party without your permission, unless we are permitted or required to do so by law.

We may have to release personal information under the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 and the Freedom of Information Act 2000 if data protection laws allow.

We may be under an obligation to publish personal information on a public register. We will tell you if this applies to your personal information in the relevant privacy notice.

We will share your personal information if we are permitted or required to do so by law – for example, by court order, to prevent fraud or for the investigation of civil disputes or criminal offences.

Contact us

If you are already in contact with one of our teams, you can direct your query through them.

This includes requests to exercise any of your rights under data protection laws.

Please visit our Contact Us page if you have any other queries.

Contact our Data Protection Officer

Our Data Protection Officer (DPO) is responsible for giving independent advice and monitors the OEP's use of personal information.
